Dear [redacted]

STAT

It was a very real pleasure to receive your gracious note and I look forward to our next visit, either in Washington or New York.

Admittedly I do not know which end of the racket you are now in. But knowing that in the past the organization has absorbed people of strange and ofttimes esoteric skills, I thought I would bring to your attention a young man whose special aptitudes might be of use. He is [redacted] who is now in this country and whom I have observed rather closely. I thought this maritime background plus his linguistic accomplishments might possibly find an outlet in your organization.

In case you might wish to refer his name elsewhere within the outfit, I am sending you a notation of the man's career and background. - - - He does not know of this letter.

If I am in Washington in a fortnight or a month, as may be the case, I shall check with you through the Club.

Very sincerely,
